

INTERGENERATIONAL PROGRAMS

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The GACTC offers a wide range of programs for adults seeking vocational and technical training to enter a new career or to take the next step in a current career. Intergenerational programs are taught primarily to high school students, but are also available for adult participation.

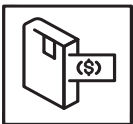

In addition to the technical training in each program, intergenerational programs include a career readiness course to assist students with resumes, interview skills, and soft skills. Available programs may include:

- Automotive Technology
- Automotive Diesel Technology
- Bakery & Pastry Arts
- Cabinetmaking/Finished Carpentry
- Carpentry/Construction
- Collision Repair & Refinishing Technology
- Computer & Networking Technology
- Computer Programming
- Culinary Arts
- Digital Communications
- Electro Mechanical Engineering Technology
- Graphic Design
- Logistics & Supply Chain Management
- Masonry
- Outdoor Power Equipment Technology
- Precision Machining

INDUSTRY CERTIFICATIONS

Programs include the opportunity for on-the-job training in an occupational area compatible to the vocational-technical course in which the student is enrolled through an internship or similar work experience. Students receive a diploma upon completion of the program. Certification opportunities vary by program. Check our website for details of each program.
